There are 4 entrances/exits: Piazza Pitti, main door, Via Romana 37/A (Annalena), Forte Belvedere e Porta Romana.

In each access point, visitors will find a ticket office. Accessibility and Inclusion Department developed some accessible routes for visitors with reduced mobility, previous contact by email.

Entrance from Piazza Pitti

Along the path, it is possible to see Daci Statues and a copy of Nano Morgante. Nearby, the Grotta del Buontalenti is partially accessible, due to a staircase.

Following the curved pathway, visitors can get to the Amphitheatre, Piazzale della Meridiana and la Cerchiata Centrale.

Entrance from Via Romana 37/A (Annalena)

The curved pathway on the right side, after the ticket office, has a high gradient (about 20%). The path, made of gravel, leads to la Vasca dell'Isola, on the right side, and to the Amphitheatre, on the left side. This last pathway is not recommended for visitors with a manual wheelchair or without a help.

Entrance from Porta Romana

Following the pathway, visitors can reach the Prato dei Castagni and the Vasca di Nettuno. Starting from the Prato dei Castagni the pathway leads to the lower part of the garden in gentle slope with curves. The park and the route are divided by a small bevelled step 6 cm/2,3 in high.

Inside the garden, there are two bathrooms. The first is on the right side of the Amphitheatre, having Palazzo Pitti behind; please ask the operators on duty inside the garden or at the bookshop, located on the left side of the Amphitheatre, to use the stair lift (69x80 cm/2,3x2,7 ft.). The second is a small one and is located at the entrance in Via Romana 37/A Annalena.

The bookshop is located in the Amphitheatre area and to reach it visitors have to overcome a small step 4-5 cm/1,6-2 in high. Inside the garden, there are some fountains with drinking water and a point of comfort located between Prato dei Castagni and the entrance to the Museo delle Porcellane.

A special map for people with reduced mobility or in wheelchair has been created to provide easier access to the garden. It includes suggested itineraries, their duration, slopes and level of difficulty.

Points of interest and tourist services are clearly marked on the map, available at the entrance of the Boboli Garden.
